Mysterious Loss Of Many Dogs is Easily Explained

Police Department is Engaged in Gathering in Canines Not Decorated With Tags

Lost—Lots of dogs, everywhere in Honolulu. Liberal reward offered for recovery.

Found—Same dogs, in the city and county pound; no reward necessary.

Deputy Sheriff Julius W. Asch laughed heartily today over some of the "Lost" advertisements he had read.

"I'll bet even money those 'lost' dogs are down in the city and county jail," he said, "and no reward is necessary if they are. Just a small donation of $1.00 for tax, tag and expenses will liberate the desired animal."

One "ad" calls for a German police dog, another would like to locate a white Spitz.

"I can't say whether either of these are in the pound, but it is quite likely," said the deputy, "for in a week's dog catching campaign we have found almost every kind of a dog under the sun."

Asch says that anyone who misses his pet had better hurry to redeem him, however, because every dog taken up by the dog catcher has just three days of grace and then takes a walk into the gas box and on to the happy hunting ground. Dogs with mange, however, are convicted without trial and executed immediately after arrest.

About 150 dogs have been caught in the past few days whose necks were not graced with the customary tag. About half of these have been redeemed by their owners. They are picked up in every part of Honolulu.

Black dogs, spotted dogs, big dogs, puppy dogs, mongrels, hounds, blooded pups—all are jammed together in the improvised dog wagon every day. None in dogdom is exempt. If the tag is not evident the lariat whirrs and pretty soon Mr. Dog is in the dog patrol and on his way to jail.

HOSPITALS NOT HOSPITABLE TO LUM TAI CHUN?

When Lum Tai Chun lost four teeth and suffered a severely injured face from a flying sledge-hammer in the Pearl Harbor navy yards yesterday and was brought here for medical aid, it is alleged he found various hospitals not in a receptive mood. Finally his brother was located and he was taken to the home on Fort street, near Pauroa road.

Chun was first taken to the Queen's hospital, but was refused admittance, the police report. Then he was hurried to the emergency hospital, where Police Surgeon R. G. Ayer extracted broken teeth from a smashed gum and administered first aid generally. Then Dr. Ayer ordered him to the government hospital at Fort Shafter because, as he understood, the man was refused at the Queen's hospital.

But Fort Shafter officials declined the injured man's case, says Dr. Ayer, on the grounds that they took no one there other than enlisted men and officers. Dr. Ayer thought because Chun was a government employee that he would be admitted at Fort Shafter, but he was mistaken and had to try again.

"I couldn't keep him in the emergency ward," said the doctor, "for he was not seriously injured although nearly unconscious and hardly able to talk when he came in. I supposed the Queen's hospital people had refused the man on account of their new policy in reference to compensation patients, as published in the Star-Bulletin yesterday. We had a merry time of it for a while but finally delivered him into the hands of his brother, Tai Atung, and he is all right today."

Werner Roehl, superintendent of the Queen's hospital, who has precipitated the crisis in the compensation affair, denied today that any man was turned away from the Queen's hospital.

CITY EMPLOYEES REJOICE WHEN SALARIES RISE

Board of Supervisors in Adopting Budget Distribute Several Pay Increases

After Supervisor Hatch started the ball rolling yesterday by moving that the $500 that had been cut from the board's appropriation be restored, other members of the board gathered courage and asked for salary raises for which they had given up all hope.

Supervisor Larsen was the first to ask for more money. He read off a schedule of salary increases in the water and sewer departments and obtained them without a dissenting vote.

Harry E. Murray, the manager, was raised to $225 from $200; Samuel K. Oneha, bookkeeper in the water department, from $125 to $150; Oliver K. Stillman, bookkeeper in the sewer department, from $110 to $135; David K. Hoapili, statistician in the water and sewer departments, from $90 to $110; George W. Baker, draftsman and assistant engineer, from $75 to $100; Samuel F. Chillingworth, Jr., chief inspector of service, from $125 to $150.

Next Supervisor Arnold arose and asked that the board reconsider his defeated motion of the night before to raise the salaries of "the two Freds," Ohrt and Pierce, assistant city engineers, $25 apiece and also to raise the salary of E. E. Black, a third assistant engineer, for whom no raise had been asked the night before, to $175 a month. Pierce has been getting $150 a month, Ohrt $175 and Black $5 a day on temporary work. All three increases were granted.

The salary of these men comes from the money raised by the frontage tax.

Then Supervisor Hollinger asked that the salary of Luther A. K. Evans, assistant to the building inspector, be raised from $125 to $150, and it was.

A raise to $140 had been made Monday night and then the salary was set back to $125 Tuesday. The increase will come from the school funds, as will a raise of $25 voted to Henry Freitas, building inspector, which was voted Monday night.

Freitas has been getting $175. No salary expense has been charged against the school funds, although the building inspector has the administering of them.

George M. Collins, city engineer, was granted a raise of $25 Monday night. He has been getting $225 and was promised the "salary that goes with the office" when he took it last January.

Eugene Buffandeau, clerk to the board since it was organized, was raised from $200 to $225.
